

We support promising entrepreneurs with systematical programs that cover everything from the basic to operational levels for starting new businesses.

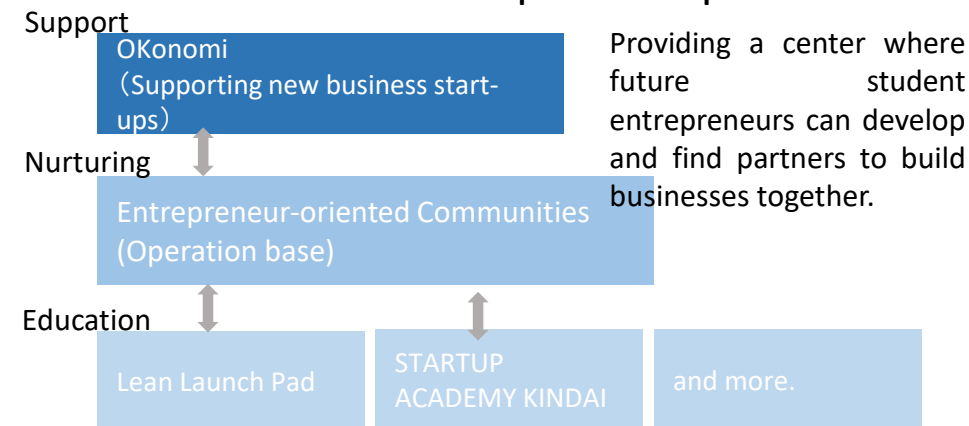

■ Nurturing individuals to become entrepreneurs

Kindai University has established the “ACADEMIC THEATER”, a center that realizes one of our founding principles “Learning for the real world”. From medicine to the arts, various kinds of projects take place at this comprehensive study facility which consists of the academic essence of 14 faculties, 48 departments and a junior college. Among the projects, the “Incubation Factory” is sure to create new values as it plays a role in nurturing individuals to become entrepreneurs.

■ What is the "Incubation Factory"?

This factory handles activities related to the necessary education, nurturing and support required in the realization of our goal of producing entrepreneurs and student venture companies. The factory is open to all Kindai University students regardless of their faculty.

To become the university that produces the largest number of student entrepreneurs in Japan

■ Our main activities

▪ Lean Launch Pad (Education)

This is a series of entrepreneurship lectures advocated by Mr. Steve Blank, a serial entrepreneur who teaches at Stanford University. In this program, students can theoretically learn from the creation of ideas to the hypothetical verification of business models.

▪ STARTUP ACADEMY KINDAI (Education)

This course focuses on actually doing business. As head of a company, students sell products and attain profit in the real business world. Students receive practical experience.

▪ Entrepreneur-oriented Communities (Nurturing)

We hold many kinds of seminars. We also have study sessions for the community taught by invited entrepreneurs, venture capitalists and other professionals. There are also study meetings that students independently organize.

▪ OKonomi (Support)

The screening committee by venture capitalists and entrepreneurs is held once a month. Successful teams are provided with 300,000 JPY as reserve for the establishment of a company in addition to one year of mentoring for business development.
